

---

A memo from the desk of Dr. Rody

---

Dr. Rody Hawkins, Ph.D.

Re: Who is Dr. Rody?

Dr. Rody Hawkins is a Muscle Physiologist and Meat Biochemist with a minor in Biochemistry and Food Nutrition.

Dr. Rody has worked for the two largest food companies in the US and has advised numerous other companies in the design and improvement of food products and solving complex technical problems. The food products he has designed during his 30 year career in the meat and food industry can be found on the shelf of any major grocery chain or convenience store. His company, RDI Foods, has helped companies and production facilities in Europe, Asia, South American and Australia. He is an expert in shelf stable foods and specializes in shelf stable meats. He works closely with the US Military designing nutritious, flavorful, and safe, shelf stable foods for the fighting men and women of the armed forces. He has also worked on nutritious survival rations for displaced populations and emergency relief. Dr. Rody specializes on solving the toughest problems facing the production of quality nutritious and safe food.

Rody